17 Dinningside, Belford Northumberland, NE70 7NP

This detached bungalow is pleasantly situated without being overlooked by other properties and has a drive to one side, and gardens that continue around the other side from the front to the rear. The internal accommodation offers a regular layout with most rooms leading off the central hall, and a kitchen extension to the rear. This is a fantastic opportunity for a buyer to remodel the existing property and extend and develop to suit their personal preferences. The rooms are well-proportioned and some buyers may consider the prospect of converting the attic space. The drive at the side also lends itself to parking for a caravan or motorhome.

With a market square and medieval cross at its centre, the ancient village of Belford is popular base for tourists visiting North Northumberland and the delights of the coastline with its sandy beaches and imposing castles. Known historically as a coaching village, Belford still retains its popularity as a place to stay, with its proximity to the A1 and positioned between tourist attractions at the coast and inland to the Northumberland National Park.
